

Well, this is it. The last few weeks of 2011 are quickly dwindling to an end, and as this year draws to a close, so does the current chapter of my life.

I am currently in my final two weeks of working as a truck driver in the oil fields, and by mid-January I will make the move to Haiti for the first half of 2012.

For the last few years I have had the joy, honor, and privilege of serving as the Associate Pastor of Grace Baptist Church - now Redemption Church - in Odessa, TX and though I am also leaving this position, I look forward to seeing what God does there in the next few years.

MY UPCOMING TRIP TO HAITI

Due to some extenuating circumstances, David Young, Director of HG-Haiti, and his small team who were planning to go down and do some prep work for my arrival were unable to make the trip. This does not change the plan for me to go, but it does change the level of preparedness I have in my planning.

On the financial side of things, I'd say I am still in the "it's gonna be tight" category in my fundraising for this venture. Specifically what I am looking for this month is 20 people would would decide to set up a recurring monthly $5 donation during my time in Haiti. This would total $100 a month, and would move me to the "right where I need to be" category for this trip. Would you consider being one of these people? If you want more information on how to set up your donation or how my fundraising works, please contact me.

WORLD OUTREACH TO LONDON

Just as a reminder that if you are interested in becoming a part of our evangelistic team going to London, England and Cardiff, Wales while the Olympics are going on, the December 15 deadline to receive the $100 discounted rate is quickly approaching. Email me for more information or to begin the application process.

I am also currently in the process of writing and working with a graphic designer to put together the printed materials we will be using during this and future evangelistic outreaches. These materials will give basic gospel information, then point them to a website where they can find more information about becoming a Christian and what it means to live as a disciple of Christ. In an attempt to keep our team members' fees for this trip down, we are seeking to find outside donors who will help provide for the printing of these materials.

If your church, sunday school class, or bible study group would like to help cover the costs of these materials, please email me and I can give you more information.

NOW SCHEDULING SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS

One of the hardest parts of entering full-time missions is the need to fundraise all of my own living and ministry expenses, but the positive side of that process is that it allows me the opportunity to travel and meet many churches and other groups of believers who share a common passion for spreading the gospel across the earth.

If you know of a church or organization who would have me, I would love the opportunity to come and present my ministry as a potential partner to their international outreach efforts. I would also love for consideration if you or someone you know are simply looking for an evangelist to speak at an upcoming event.

I am currently looking to schedule speaking engagements for the second half of 2012 and I am ready to at talk to anyone with questions about the possibility of our partnering together in Kingdom-building efforts.

As always, thank you all so much for your continued prayer, support, and words of encouragement and I hope you all have a wonderful Christmas this year.
